

Humans vs. Zombies
Battle Across Time
Part 8

By

Colton Hunt

EXT. WASHINGTON D.C.- THE FUTURE

No zombies. No nothing. Well, normal human people is something. Still, it's not what the survivors expected.

In truth they can't seem to be able to bring themselves to accept this peaceful world.

WILL

I don't get it guys. Where's the pandemonium? The disaster? The wrecked landmarks for crying out loud.

He comes close to shouting out the last line as they walk past the Lincoln Memorial.

SCHYLER

Shouldn't you be happy that the world is saved?

WILL

I am, but normally when the heroes go to the future it's supposed to be in a complete state of disarray.

DANNY

Lest we forget that our friends had no way of getting to the past to complete the mission. So how is everything OK?

LAURA

Well, it's possible that we simply went back in time for our friends and saved the day already. So we could just go searching for our future selves and ask them what happened.

KRISTEN

That doesn't make any sense. We can't exist in this era because-

LAURA

Look, before you go full on Cotlan on us, let's just consider for a minute that maybe we do exist and go check.

KRISTEN

How are we supposed to do that?

Laura pulls out her cell phone and connects to the internet.

(CONTINUED)

LAURA

You think Facebook still exists in this era?

INT. DAVIS LIBRARY- THE PAST

CHELSE

So, we have our suspects, which is everyone in this room, but the question is, who is the culprit?

Chelse stops in front of Cam.

CHELSE (CONT'D)

Could it be Cam? Always calm, cool, and collected.

CAM

A little close for comfort there
Chelse.

Chelse rolls her eyes and steps in front of Elliot.

ELLIOT

Come on Chelse-

CHELSE

(interrupts)

The guilty party always speaks first.

ELLIOT

You know Chelse, how do we know YOU didn't shoot Chris and Chipper?

CHELSE

That's stupid and you know it.

Elliot gets in Chelse's face.

ELLIOT

No it isn't. You never were in favor of this plan to begin with.
You were too afraid of losing your precious memories of Cas. How do we know you didn't sabotage the mission, so you wouldn't?

Chelse nearly slaps Elliot, but maintains her composure.
Elliot then directs his gaze towards Jen.

(CONTINUED)

CHELSE

Don't even think about it Elliot.

ELLIOT

You're so gun ho about questioning everyone else. Why not her?

JACKSON

Beware the nice ones I always say.

KIM

Look for all we know, getting us to argue is just what the shooter wants. We need to stand together.

GEORGE

Kind of hard to do that, Kim, when we don't know who to trust.

KENT

For all we know the shooter is gone by now.

GEORGE

Doubt it. No fun in taking off and not getting to enjoy seeing us unravel.

Everyone stares at George. He just shrugs at them when gun shots sound off in the distance.

CHELSE

Think that might be the shooter?

Chelse immediately goes for her bows and arrows in the weapon pile, but Elliot stops her.

CHELSE (CONT'D)

You can't be serious. If that's the shooter we need to arm ourselves...

More gunshots drown out her voice.

KIM

The shooter? More like the fucking army.

JEN

Well we're dead.

CAM

Not necessarily.

(CONTINUED)

CHELSE

You know how trigger happy those guys are when it comes to people that might be infected. Elliot let me go!

Chelse continues to struggle and it takes all of Elliot's strength to keep a hold on her.

ELLIOT

Yeah, I'm sure brandishing weapons will keep the army from gunning us down.

JOE

How do they even know we're here?

Joe's question is answered by a gunshot followed by a zombie falling through one of the doors.

Several soldiers then rush in through the open door.

KENT

Please don't shoot!

COLTON

(off screen)

Wouldn't dream of it.

Everyone's eyes dart to the door as Colton steps inside followed by Amanda.

AMANDA

Is this everyone?

COLTON

It's...guys? Where's the Tardis?

KIM

Colton, you're alive?

COLTON

Yeah, big shock. Where's the Tardis?

AMANDA

Colton, we don't have a lot of time. Are these all of your friends?

COLTON

It's only half of them. What happened to the-!

(CONTINUED)

CHELSE

It's gone, ok! There was a flash of light and then it just vanished with everyone inside!...and how are you alive?

COLTON

I got lucky...where's Lacey?

JEN

Wasn't she with you?

COLTON

She was, but I thought she and Kevin would come back here after the ambush and-what happened to Chipper?

Colton gawks at Kent still trying to stop Chipper's bleeding. He's only marginally successful, unfortunately.

KENT

Long story. He's need immediate medical attention or he'll die and we'll have to kill him again.

COLTON

Damn it.

Colton turns to Amanda.

COLTON (CONT'D)

We can't come back after we leave can we?

AMANDA

No and if you stay to look for anyone else you'll be on your own. Believe me when I say that any other soldiers will take you guys down.

As she says this Dedren runs inside the room gaining a few silent gasps from his friends from the future.

DEDREN

The zeds are fully active now. If we don't leave this second we might not make it out at all.

Colton looks back at his friends.

(CONTINUED)

COLTON

(sighing)

Well you heard them. Let's go.

Kent and Jackson help Chipper up while the rest of the survivors collect their weapons.

CAM

So we just leave and hope our friends don't come back if they figure out what went wrong with the Tardis.

KIM

Exactly Cam. That's all we can do. That and pray that they wound up someplace safe.

EXT. WASHINGTON D.C.- THE FUTURE

ERIN

Remind me. Why are we still exploring and not returning to the Tardis? Especially given that, there's no record of us or our friends, by Facebook or any other source of media in this time.

The time travelers are currently standing by the Capitol building.

DANNY

Did it ever occur to you that maybe we just want to enjoy this safe environment for as long as possible. It's not like we're on a time limit or anything. We have all the time in the-

ERIN

We don't exist in this time line. Therefore realty will eventually catch up and erase us from existence.

WILL

It's not that type of paradox. We don't exist because we skipped over our adult lives. It's not a case of we went to the future and the only reason why there's no record of us is because we already went back to the past and died and-

(CONTINUED)

KRISTEN

I swear I will punch the next person that tries to explain how time travel works.

Everyone shuts up instantly.

KRISTEN (CONT'D)

Now I agree with Erin. We should fall back to the Tardis; preferably before-

Kristen stops at the sound of approaching police sirens.

KRISTEN (CONT'D)

-trouble finds us.

LAURA

Why would the police be after a bunch of people that don't exist?

Despite Laura's question, the police cars speed into the area and slide to a stop a short distance away from the travelers. The cops all get out of their cars and aim their guns.

OFFICER #1

Freeze! Hands in the air!

The confused group raise their hands as more police cars arrive at the area.

LAURA

What's the officer, problem?

The group starts to laugh when another officer starts to clap as he exits his vehicle.

WILL

Give me a break...really?

AMIT

Really. Well, can't say I expected to see you guys again. In fact, I wasn't ever supposed to see you again.

Everyone stares at Amit amongst the other officers. Not because he is with the police, but because he looks exactly the way they knew him back in the present.

(CONTINUED)

SCHYLER

How do you look so young?

AMIT

Long story. Not that you're going to live long enough to find out.

Amit reaches for something in his police car.

Schyler turns to Laura. She recognizes the look in Schyler's eyes. Laura gives her a quick nod.

Schyler nods back and then bolts from the area.

AMIT

Hold your fire!

The cops do not fire as Amit pulls the gun beast out from his car.

TREVOR

SCHYLER!!!

Schyler looks over her shoulder and gasps at the gun beast in Amit's possession.

She turns her head back and pushes herself as fast as possible; adrenaline surging through every inch of her body.

Amit smirks and takes aim.

AMIT

This is going to be so much fun.

TO BE CONTINUED...