

god controls heaven. Satan was, and still is, an angel. now, only a fallen angel.

if god controls heaven, and Satan blasphemed, then god is responsible for Satan's action. You can't have it both ways. One must go through Jesus to get to god.

Satan is now the lord of earth. Walkers of earth, people, should worship him. after all, why question which lord to worship – god or Satan – they are both more powerful than man. God could appear to you as anything anyway.

even if evil is mostly in the hearts of mankind. it seems difficult to understand how one small lovable fallen angel could be responsible for all the evil deeds of men. Although such a power would delight in torturing an insect for years, or even kill millions of people. it wouldn't care.

besides, it seems that Satan's blaspheme was not that bad – he stated he could rule the throne of god as well if not better than god. If, I, a mortal, could state the same to god, and then add that I could make it a better place, and make the angels of heaven happier, wouldn't that make me 3 times more evil than Satan?

why would god allow men into heaven? As men look down upon insects in disgust, so god looks down upon men. And although animals are god's furry creatures, insects are not.

besides the fact that you do not go directly to Hell when you die, you instead go to purgatory – the waiting place for dead souls. then you must wait for judgment day. and that may take a long time, because you must wait until the end of god's game. and he may want to play the universe thousands of times over.

and judgment day? the most embarrassing day of your life – when god displays your life story over and over, picking it apart in front of all heaven's angels. Actually, your proudest moment is to be judged in heaven.

and you don't spend eternity in Hell, brimstone in Hell is the catalyst to set the soul on fire, destroying it completely. This is known as the second death – the erasure of the person. Hell is repetition.

God has problems too. Take for instance these:

- 1) he has been dead for some 2,000 years. and if you're still waiting for the 'second resurrection', you better prepare to wait forever.. it already happened. he was resurrected once spiritually, and a second time physically. remember when John wanted to put his hand into Jesus' open wound, and then refused when he saw Jesus alive again after being crucified? then his body disappeared from the tomb.
- 2) if he is dead, and we eat of his flesh, and drink of his blood, to gain immortality, it seems we become cannibals. Happens every time I look at my food! Especially fries. Man eats man. Does god eat man? God ate god.
- 3) and we love Jesus. If Jesus is dead, that sounds like necrophilia. then again I worship no one man. Most people would not want to have sex with Jesus.
- 4) is god Jesus, is god god, or is god the holy ghost!? He has a multipersonality. Strange, so do I. introduce him to Krishna, Buddha, and Allah someday.

strange thing to pray to, or worship. when your only result is life in a cube. why not face it and welcome yourself to planet earth – the sphere. or would you rather live in a pyramid!? Hell must be a pyramid. probably somewhere in Las Vegas. you'd be better off in Hell instead of living in something 10,000 cubits on a side with 144,000 other 'saved' souls. The end.

btw: what is a saved soul anyway? Something Jesus does for when he's hungry later on. saves your soul in a jar by the side of his bed. Delightful snacks those human souls!! live evil. Devil lived. Live devil lived evil.

Who is erik jon oredson?

I was born by an Agnostic. In the first 15 years of my life I never heard or spoke of the word God. In the first 15 years of my life I never touched, open, or read the Holy Bible. In the first 15 years of my life I never entered or prayed in a church. At year 17 I was born again in a Jesus-freak church. Being reborn young and before reaching Of Age, I am not legally or spiritually responsible for my actions. So, if I am an Atheist, why do I worship Christmas – the worship of the birth of Christ!? I put up a tree every year, and open presents. I put lights on my tree, and small ornaments. Am I insane or has there been some sort of freakish joke been played upon me? Shouldn't we just suffice with the whole celebration by just sending cards or saying hi? Thank you. I should instead worship the death of Christ... 'Santa'—'Satan' coincidence? I think not.

Christmas used to be a Pagan holiday until the Christians decided it is now to be the Birthday of Christ. Makes Satan look like a jolly fat little elf. And leaves only one Pagan holiday left – Halloween (All hallows eve). Next they'll take that one away too, calling it the celebration of the burning of the witches. And what are witches?

Witches are people who believe in the Ahnk, the study of love and fertility. That makes Male witches the practitioners of Wicca. The idea of male/female supremacy over other Undefined things. Most people would believe in Humans, not Demons and Angels.

And if you do find an angel, I would like to know. It would be interesting to use Angelic Autopsy to study it. Then again, if we could get a fleck of Jesus' flesh off the shroud and replicate Him using DNA experimentation, maybe we could get a better idea of how He was constructed. Maybe we could grow 1,000s of Jesus' in a laboratory growth tank.

And when Jesus said on the cross: "Forgive them Father, for they know not what they do.", well, we knew exactly what we were doing – we were killing Christ! And when he died, it is a little known secret that He went through all of our sins one by one, and saved us from each one of them. Why God's first commandment is not to Murder, yet we do, and even murder murderers, why would He allow us to murder his son? And how could Humanity murder God.. Isn't He the one with all the ultimate powers – omni benevolence, omnipresence, omnipotence, and such. Actually, He probably has an infinite amount of powers. Quite weak for a God to allow such suffering and death.

And when you're in Hell, and burning up, and you cry to Jesus for a drop of water on your tongue, and nothing happens, you'll wish you had Christ. The guy next to you keeps saying 'Got Jesus?', because he did, and now has plenty of water. In the lake of fire. Next to a brimstone tree, there exists a funny looking waterfall, but it never gives any life. Chew on some brimstone instead.

And if BC is before Christ and AD is after death, but both are from 0, did Christ live 0 years? Shouldn't AD be 30 years or so after death?

And I don't want Satan behind me. I want him in front of me where I can see what he's doing. I don't want Him fiddling behind my back where I can't see Him. I'm a Human. I believe in no one demon or angel. Nor do I believe in the immortal battle for my soul.

I have calculated the human equation. I love no one man. And don't send Satan to Hell – that's where he has the most power! And stop trying to destroy Him. That only makes Him stronger.

And why not just send Satan back to Heaven where He fell from, and tell God to stop sending his mistakes to our planet. We must build a starship powerful enough to send Him to the end of the stars, where, presumably, the Heavenly cube exists. If we just tried to teleport Him, we couldn't because we don't have the coordinates of the cube.

When Jesus died his soul didn't go to Heaven – his soul remained on earth. As His physical body did also when it was resurrected. No human gets into Heaven. Why would God want biological beings in Heaven?

Aren't human beings just bloody sacks of blood held up by thin white bony sticks? Amazing devices capable of turning food into shit. I hate the disgusting activity of eating. Food is tasteless guk. You must eat every day to provide nutrition to the human body. As long as the food is chewed and swallowed you will live to see another day.

Survival of the fittest is the maximum credo on the streets. I don't understand your pain and I don't care. I can't help you to heal and I wouldn't want to. I will do utterly anything whatsoever to survive without exception of any type, creed, or type. I will destroy myself to survive. There are certain levels of survival we are prepared to accept. I will isolate myself in order to survive. There is no line drawn when considering survival. If I have to murder you in order to survive I will.

There should be an agreement of who dies first and who is willing to eat the flesh of our mates when hungry. Everybody must consent to cannibalism. In order to do so we may even have to consider infanticide. This was common practice in the days before the birth of Christ in order to prevent His birth.

The secret to life is to shave your crotch. And what better perverse thing to make a man do? Is the secret to death to cut your penis off?

If Jews don't believe Christ was the true Christ, and Christ was the king of the Jews, then Christ doesn't believe in Christ.

And then God said, "Fuck it! Go to Hell!" and earth and all the stars in the sky went to Hell, and God went to Heaven and sealed Himself in forever.

Satan was given one last remaining creation chip, and after using the Antichrist system to destroy the Universe, finally re-created Creation into a fashion where only Satans and Antichrists exist.

And God said "Let there be light." and he existed for eternity before such doesn't that make darkness the holiest of all things.

This is the Uncreation.