

Oration to Clauneck

I hereby invoke you, Clauneck, thou demon who art under de duke Syrach & loved by Lucifer; By the power of the lastly named but first & foremost the Almighty God Adonai, Jehovah, and so on. You possess the power to bring great wealth to men and this is what I ask from you; I hereby wish to make a pact, or for better words, an agreement or deal with you; I will make offerings to you as frequently as I can & will, so of my own accord and In return I ask from you that you bring money to me. I desire wealth from you; bring me as much money as possible. This altar is devoted & dedicated to you. Your seal is taped to it as you can see. I will eat from each offering & promise to remain honest to you in return for your honesty and results that I expect in return for these offerings. I thank you in advance & am always listening in case you have something to say, whatever it may be. I also dub thee manager of my financial life and give you permission to oversee my finances to the best of your ability. Amen.(8x)
