

'Atomic Rockets'

Los Angeles, May 27.—(AP)—Ocean-spanning atomic rockets weighing 500 pounds or more and speeding at 1,000 to 2,000 miles per hour were envisioned Tuesday as future war weapons by Dr. H. J. Stewart, research chief at the California Institute jet propulsion laboratory.

The scientist said rocket experts expect to perfect a defensive missile for use against attacking aircraft. When this is done, he added, "the present day heavy bomber will be rendered partially obsolete."

Clipped By:

jamespcarrion
Thu, Nov 1, 2018