Introduction

When it comes to your health and wellness, there are a lot of myths and lies floating around. With so many benefits of medical treatments, individuals are prone to believing in baseless falsehoods. It is harmful to believe and rely on too many unfounded myths.

Because abortion is advantageous to every women, there are several misconceptions that circulate. Don't be concerned if your mind is jumbled by all the myths about which is correct and which is incorrect. So, in this blog will clarify few myths that may exist about medical abortion.

Medical abortions are risky to undertake on your own

Truth: It is completely safe to perform a medical abortion on your own. Medical abortion is a method of ending an undesired pregnancy with the use of abortion medicines. Mifepristone and Misoprostol, both abortion medicines approved by the FDA, are 100 percent genuine.

Abortion pills come with clear and simple directions for use. The procedure is divided into two phases, making it appear to be easier. As you can buy abortion pills online, many women consider undergoing an abortion on their own.

Many women are pressured into having abortions

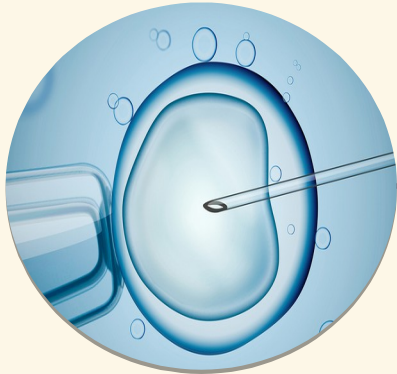

Furthermore, having an abortion does not make a person irresponsible. Women have the right to choose whether or not to get an abortion.

Truth: Buying and using abortion pills is entirely up to the individual. Women rarely attribute their decision to abortion to pressure from family or or any other person. Women up to the age of 18 can access the various abortion alternatives based on their personal preferences.

Medical abortion results in infertility

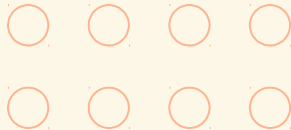

Truth: Infertility is not a result of medical abortion. Women are more likely to become pregnant soon after having a normal menstrual abortion. You can ovulate (release an egg) right after having an abortion, so you could become pregnant soon.

If you are mentally, and physically prepared for a planned pregnancy, then there's no need to get concerned about it. As a result, there is no connection between infertility and medical abortion.

Medical abortion might have an impact on your menstrual cycle

Truth: No, medical abortion has no effect on a woman's menstrual cycle. A woman's next menstruation normally occurs 4 to 8 weeks following having an abortion. Because abortion empties the uterus, the menstrual cycle can be resumed.

The beginning period of a woman's next menstruation is determined by the stage of her pregnancy at the time she took the abortion pill. After a medical abortion, your next period may be heavier than usual.

It is possible to reverse medical abortion

Truth: No, medical abortion can not be reversed. Many people believe that women may change their minds about pregnancy and get their abortions reversed, but this is clearly not true. It is a misconception that large doses of the hormone progesterone are given to women to prevent abortion. While higher progesterone dosages may not harm a woman, it is irresponsible to put someone at risk for no proven benefit. As a result, it is dangerous to do so.

It is unsafe to buy abortion pills online

Truth: Abortion pills may be purchased online at your convenience and are completely safe. While many women are unable to get the appropriate method of abortion, buying an abortion pill over the internet is a convenient and safe option.
