

April 25, 2020

To my family, friends, fellow countrymen and patriots:

Pardon the filibuster, but I am writing this email as a very concerned New Yorker that cares about the well being of my fellow Americans as well as those people of other countries around the world. This letter comes from a place of love. Love for my country. Love for the human race and love for our ancestors that spilled blood for us to specifically inherit our freedoms.

The majority of people I have reached out to and spoken with since quarantine started, most of us agree something strange is afoot. We are fighting against a seemingly invisible enemy and are seeing unprecedented top down authoritarian control in almost every country, every province, every state, every city, every town, municipality and every where we look. I don't know if many of you understand the magnitude of what is at stake, here.

(I tried to include source links where I could. Please read this email in full. Informing yourself is the single most important thing you can do with your free time right now.)

My Background

My name is Anthony. I am a musician. I have two degrees in music business and one degree from a technical school on top of that. I have experience in the medical field as a diagnostic medical sonographer in echocardiography, vascular and transcranial modalities. I am a direct descendent of Stonewall Jackson. My great uncle, Dr. Ephraim Brevard penned the first Declaration of Independence (The Mecklenburg Declaration) and does not get credit for it outside of North Carolina state-taught curriculum. I identify with neither side of the left/right paradigm. I have no agenda with what I am about to speak on, other than that burning desire inside of me to have all of our people live free. I am a firm constitutionalist that believes in equality for all. I am from New Rochelle, which is ironically ground zero for Coronavirus in the United States; but it is also home of the Thomas Paine Cottage. Thusly, I decided to title this body of work:

Common Sense 2: The Most Important Time of Our Lives

With that said, I have been spending a fair amount of my time during quarantine reading, thinking and researching about the inaccuracies of the numbers of cases and deaths associated with Covid-19 being reported on by mainstream news outlets. I have also further looked into the rtPCR tests that are being used to diagnose Covid-19 (and in many cases no testing is being used at all, just classifying cases based on a description of the symptoms by the patient).

I am going to present only facts within this email. That is very important to understand as we go through this. Please look at every link and every source. I encourage you to cross reference via other sources. We have a lot of work ahead of us.

Down the rabbit hole we go..

rtPCR Tests and The Origin of Covid-19

198 people became acutely ill with respiratory symptoms (pneumonia) at Wuhan Seafood Market in China. Poison from contaminated meats was never considered to be the cause and never investigated. This is a quote from the first paper called "Discovery of a novel coronavirus associated with the recent pneumonia outbreak in humans and it's potential bat origin" from the group that claims to have identified this new coronavirus..

"The disease was determined as viral induced pneumonia by clinicians according to clinical symptoms and other criteria including body temperature rising, lymphocytes and white blood cells increasing, new pulmonary infiltrates (which just means fluid and congestion in the lungs) on chest radiography (x-ray), and no obvious improvement upon three days of antibiotic treatment. It appears that most of the early cases had contact history with the original seafood market.."

They seemed to be eager to classify this illness as a virus very fast. So here's what they did: They took only 7 out of the 198 patients who were sick and then:

- 1) They collected bronchoalveolar (lung) fluid and other samples. They extracted this lung fluid and they did not first try to find a virus in there and separate it out and purify it. they instead..

- 2) Found and separated genetic material from the sample. What they found was some RNA. In our bodies, at any given time there are free genetic materials circulating around our blood and various fluids. There are also genetic materials contained in various types of structures like vesicles, normal bacteria, etc. Then they

- 3) Sequenced the genetic material (code of the genetic material) then

- 4) Rushed to develop qualitative PCR diagnostic test

So, before they have proven anything, they already developed a test without answering a fundamental question, what is the source of that genetic material?

PCR tests amplify RNA, not DNA. The test does not test for the virus itself, it tests for a sequence of RNA. That sequence of RNA may be present in a virus but it may also be present because of a laundry list of other things.

We don't understand the relationship between what we're looking for and that RNA sequence. So you can see the flaw in looking for something that is only associated with that virus and not the virus itself. In other words, if we were able to take people that were ill with this pandemic pneumonia, take their lung fluid and from that, purify out a virus particle that we can identify. Then take the genetic material right from that particle, we would have a pure sample of only these particles. Thus, a gold standard would be born. The way you would test this rtPCR is by having a group of sick patients and a group of healthy patients. Then perform both tests on each of those patients and compare results of rtPCR test against the gold standard test. This would help create a calculable error rate because no test is perfect. It is very important to have that control group because that control group would not have the virus present at all and should have a negative PCR test.

So we're using a test that potentially has a very high false positive rate. Covid-19 has never been purified and visualized. It has only been visualized once, in vivo (in humans), not in vitro (extracted cell tissue in a petri dish). These rtPCR tests have no gold standard to test against, thereby the accuracy of the test is unknown!

I then came across a now retracted peer-reviewed article from NCBI in which Kary Mullis, the inventor of PCR testing was quoted as saying..

"Quantitative PCR is an oxymoron." PCR is intended to identify substances qualitatively, but by its very nature is unsuited for estimating numbers. Although there is a common misimpression that the viral-load tests actually count the number of viruses in the blood, these tests cannot detect free, infectious viruses at all; they can only detect proteins that are believed, in some cases wrongly, to be unique to HIV. The tests can detect genetic sequences of viruses, but not viruses themselves [(29), p. 3].

We are being duped because the rtPCR tests are in fact being used quantitatively when this methodology, from the inventor of the tests own admission is unsuited for estimating numbers.

Death Certificates

I wish to amplify and paraphrase a speech given recently by Dr. Bucacek.

Inquiring minds want to know are the reported deaths from Covid-19 truly deaths from Covid-19? So we need to talk about death certificates as they are the most basic source of information about mortality.

Few people know how much individual power and leeway is given to the physician, coroner or medical examiner signing the death certificate. More often than they want to admit, they don't know with certainty the cause of death when they fill out death certificates. Autopsies are rarely performed and even when done, the actual cause of death is not always clear. Physicians make their best guess and fill out the form. Then that listed cause of death is entered into a vital records databank that is used for statistical analysis that then gives out inaccurate numbers. Then those inaccurate numbers become accepted as factual information even though much of it is false.

So even before we were presented with Covid-19; death certificates were based on assumptions and educated guesses that go unquestioned. There is no universal definition of Covid-19 death. The Center for Disease Control stated on its website that "Mortality data includes both confirmed and presumptive positive cases of Covid-19." That means they are counting speculative guesses and actual cases the same. They automatically overestimate the real case numbers and death numbers by their own admission, because they are also doing this with cases. So let's say patient X goes into a hospital and says I think I have Covid-19. That patient is counted as a case of Covid-19 even before testing.

About 60% of people die in hospitals in the US. Prior to Covid-19, in a hospital you were more likely to get a better estimation as to the cause of death because hospitals have physical exam findings, labs, etc used to monitor patients that will help make a better call from a doctor's perspective. But even those that die in a hospital, the cause of death is not always clear in those with multiple health conditions (immunocompromising issues).

There are also unclear causes of deaths in ambulances. We don't know sometimes the cause of death because the patient has died before the incident could be evaluated.

The true cause of death in the other 40% of the population is generally unknown.

This includes people that die in their homes, in nursing homes or peacefully in their sleep. The death certificate is filled out with the best educated guess. It is not acceptable to list old age as the cause of death although that may be more accurate at times than what is listed on the death certificate instead. A doctor, for example, is allowed to list atherosclerotic cardiovascular disease as a cause of death and that may be their best guess in a lot of these cases. But who actually knows with 100% certainty? No one. Only God.

In this other 40% of the population that dies outside of a hospital, a mortician can take the word of a relative with no medical background and list it as the official cause of death and that will go unquestioned. According to Dr. Bucacek, this happens often in urban areas, country towns and rural areas. In this case, an accurate cause of death may not matter so much. But in the climate of today, when governments are making massive changes that encroach on our constitutional rights, it becomes pretty damn important when these decisions are based on inaccurate statistics!

The CDC states "The assumption of Covid-19 can be made even without testing. Based on assumption alone, the death can be reported to the public as another Covid-19 Casualty."

The March 24, 2020 National Vital Statistics System memo states "The rules for coding and selection of the underlying cause of death are expected to result in Covid-19 being the underlying cause of death more often than not."

The CDC states on their website "The death numbers are preliminary and have not been confirmed."

Steven Schwartz, national director of the Division of Vital Statistics says an answer to the question as stated in the organizations Covid-19 alert "Should Covid-19 be recorded on the death certificate only with a confirmed test?" Steven Schwartz explained "Covid-19 should be reported on the death certificate for all decedents where the disease caused, or is assumed to have caused or contributed to death."

Fact: Covid-19 death and assumed death by Covid-19 are not the same thing. Those who passed away from something else and had an incidental finding of Covid-19 positivity are classified as having died from Covid-19. Dying with Covid-19 is not the same as dying from Covid-19.

Let's break down the healthcare portion of the $2 trillion bailout now.

KFF.org reports in their article entitled "A Look at the $100 Billion for Hospitals in the CARES Act"

"The $2 trillion Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security (CARES) Act contains a vast array of spending provisions, including an additional $100 billion for the Public Health and Social Services Emergency Fund. This new funding is designed to provide an influx of money to hospitals and other health care entities responding to the coronavirus pandemic. This $100 billion averages out to about $108,000 per hospital bed in the United States.

Hospitals across the country clearly need additional resources as they struggle to treat the surge of COVID-19 patients and prepare for a spike in patient load. The $100 billion fund was established to help hospitals ramp up quickly, in response to new demands, giving the Secretary of Health and Human Services broad discretion over how the $100 billion fund will be distributed, although it is not yet clear how these funds will be allocated.

Here's what we do know. The Secretary is to provide funding as quickly as possible, and hospitals can apply for money for a range of coronavirus-related expenses, including construction of temporary structures and medical supplies. Hospitals cannot use this funding for expenses for which they will receive or are seeking other reimbursement. Non-profit and for-profit hospitals may be eligible for funds, and potentially other entities may receive funding, if they diagnose, test or provide care for COVID-19 patients."

So, in other words, this bailout package included monetary incentives for hospitals to claim more cases in both the living and the dead. I think I can speak for everyone reading this when I say.. What the fuck?

Italy's Prime Minister even came out and said, according to Bloomberg, that 99% of the deaths in Italy were in people with 1, 2, 3 or even 4 immunocompromising health conditions.

Has There Been a Change in Total Mortality Rate in the US?

Then I started looking at 'total mortality rates' across the country, here in the US. The number of deaths have not changed at all compared to previous years. We are seeing roughly an average of 50,000-55,000 deaths per week steadily throughout the past 10 years. Please look for yourself on the CDC's own website (the column to pay attention to is total deaths): <https://gis.cdc.gov/grasp/fluview/mortality.html>

Therefore, there has been a hierarchical, top down chain of command coupled with medicare incentives encouraging doctors to label patients with Covid-19 ($13,000 awarded for any patient diagnosed with Covid-19 and an additional $39,000 for each patient put on a ventilator) that is ultimately just reclassifying deaths from other illnesses. I reference the above link to total deaths and no anomalous increase present.

The World Health Organization

The World Health Organization was given a 10 billion dollar donation by the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation. Bill Gates also contributed 79 million dollars to Imperial college in 2020 alone! (Imperial College and Neil Ferguson are the researchers who lobbied governments to shut down the global economy based on computer models that were wrong.) Interesting side note, Bill Gates owns stake in all the companies developing a vaccine for Covid-19.

What's more, Imperial College is responsible for falsely hyping the Swine Flu epidemic, Ebola, and rarely spoken about in the US, the UK foot and mouth viral outbreak (which based on only 2,000 cases, authorities forced the slaughter of 6 million cattle in an effort to stop the spread and subsequently drove a lot of working farmers out of business).

The CDC also received Bill and Melinda Gates' funding at the tune of $100 million dollars on February 5th, 2020. This creates an unfathomable conflict of interest for these institutions that should never take private funding to begin with.

Tedros, Director of the World Health Organization, was accused of covering up Cholera epidemics in his home country of Ethiopia where he served as the minister of health prior to being recruited for his position at WHO. Tedros is not a medical doctor. Oh, did I mention he is also a marxist belonging to Tigrayan People's Liberation Front (TPLF) which is listed in the global terrorism database? You can't make this shit up! The World Health Organization is not to be trusted. Yet, they have been setting health policies around the world for some time, now. I am including in the links below the ideology of the TPLF.

Event 201 and PREDICT

It is also worth mentioning a few more things. The first being that a tabletop exercise was being run in October of 2019 hosted by Johns Hopkins University and the Bill and Melinda Gates foundation called 'Event 201.' They specifically simulated the spread of a Novel Coronavirus right as there was a Novel Coronavirus spreading. Take this for face value.

Event 201: <https://www.centerforhealthsecurity.org/event201/about>

Secondly, the World Military Games were held in Wuhan, China in October of 2019. There were high ranking US military officials present. Take this for face value.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/2019\_Military\_World\_Games

Thirdly, The PREDICT project was launched by U.S.A.I.D in response to the 2005 "Bird Flu" scare. PREDICT was an early warning pandemic program that specifically was working on detecting new viruses that could potentially jump between species. Quoting from the LA times article I link to below,

"Two months before the novel coronavirus probably began spreading in China, the Trump administration ended a $200 million pandemic early-warning program aimed at training scientists in China and other countries how to detect and respond to such a threat."

"The project, launched by the U.S. Agency for International Development in 2009, identified 1,200 different viruses that had the potential to erupt into pandemics, including more than 160 novel coronaviruses. The initiative, called PREDICT, also trained and supported staff in 60 foreign laboratories — including the Wuhan lab that identified SARS-CoV-2, the new coronavirus that causes COVID-19."

"They also took blood samples from people in rural China, and learned that, in living among wildlife, they had been exposed to coronaviruses — a clear sign that, if those viruses spread easily among humans, they could take off. That "raised the red flag," said Mazet."

"Coronaviruses were jumping easily across species lines and were ones to watch for epidemics and pandemics," she said.

"The program also trained nearly 7,000 people across medical and agricultural sectors in 30 countries in Asia, Africa and the Middle East to help them detect deadly new viruses on their own. One of those labs was the Wuhan Institute of Virology — the Chinese lab that quickly identified SARS-CoV-2, Mazet said."

"The Wuhan lab received USAID funding for equipment, and PREDICT coordinators connected the scientists there with researchers in other countries in order to synchronize tracking of novel viruses before SARS-CoV-2."

"The project's second funding cycle concluded on Sept. 30, 2019, less than two months before the new coronavirus probably began spreading. It was granted a zero-dollar six-month extension — through March 2020 — to write up final reports."

That's remarkable. The very program that was looking for and trying to identify these novel coronaviruses and other viral threats was shut down on Sep 30, 2019.

There is a Scott Ritter article that was featured on RT.com that I no longer can find through various search engines, but I have the quote that is of importance "Scientists were able to determine that the most recent common ancestor of the coronavirus can be dated back to as early as October 1st, 2019."

So, lets put this into a timeline:

2009: PREDICT project launched by U.S Agency for International Development

9/30/2019: Funding was cut to the PREDICT project

10/1/2019: The virus appeared

10/18/19: Wuhan Military Games began (with several high ranking US military officials attending)

10/18/19: Tabletop Coronavirus simulation 'Event 201' was held

How extremely coincidental that right after funding was cut, the virus appeared. All of these things just happened to line up at the exact same time. This reminds me of how NORAD failed on 9/11 and the other catastrophic failures that enabled a successful terrorist strike that killed 3,000+ people between New York, Pennsylvania and Washington D.C.

The Rockefeller Foundation's 2010 'Scenarios for the Future of Technology and International Development'

Probably the most frightening piece of research I have come across is the 'Scenarios for the Future of Technology and International Development' published in 2010 by the Rockefeller Foundation, in which they go on to describe four different scenarios. One being "Lock Step" Here is an excerpt from page 19:

"..China's government was not the only one that took extreme measures to protect its citizens from risk and exposure. During the pandemic, national leaders around the world flexed their authority and imposed airtight rules and restrictions, from the mandatory wearing of face masks to body-temperature checks at the entries to communal spaces like train stations and supermarkets. Even after the pandemic faded, this more authoritarian control and oversight of citizens and their activities stuck and even intensified. In order to protect themselves from the spread of increasingly global problems—from pandemics and transnational terrorism to environmental crises and rising poverty—leaders around the world took a firmer grip on power."

This is written in past tense but make no mistake, lock step is playing out right before our eyes. You can rest assured that a Chinese style surveillance grid coupled with an app and digital vaccine certificates will be attempting to make it's way around the world in the name of health and protecting the people of various countries.

Tech Companies Fueling the Fire

Tech companies are lobbying lawmakers to beef up the already over reaching surveillance apparatus by trying to convince them we need thermal imaging installed to detect body temperatures from far away. Thereby, expanding the surveillance state that was introduced in the wake of 9/11. Bill Gates is even calling for digital vaccination certificates as a requirement for travel. This is all on top of a Digital ID push to end anonymity online.

Why Are We Completely Ignoring Farr's Law?

I wish to quote from an article by David Kirkpatrick that points out what I was thinking regarding Farr's Law of Epidemics famously observed by William Farr..

"..Subsequent countries will follow this same pattern, in what's called Farr's Law of Epidemics.

First formulated in 1840 and ignored in every epidemic hysteria since, including the hysterics involving SARS and Ebola, Farr's has been proven to be a trustworthy map in tracking new "epidemics".

Farr's Law of Epidemics states that epidemics tend to rise and fall in a roughly symmetrical pattern or bell-shaped curve. The flu season operates under the same curve. It rises in fall and descends in spring. That also has something to do with the weather.

Almost all respiratory viruses hate warm and moist weather.

That's why flu dies out in America every year by May at the latest and probably why Latin America has reported only 25 coronavirus cases. The Philippines where it's hot and humid has no confirmed cases of coronavirus."

It's fantastic to see someone else paying such close attention. If they try to put us in round two of quarantine come winter, tread very cautiously with any new information presented.

The Cure is Worse Than The Virus

I am weeping for my nation and all the nations around the world. This is worse than what is described in Orwell's book '1984' and is classic Hegelian dialect with a problem being presented to the public, a reaction of that narrative by the public being seen and heard, then a solution is imposed.

The cure is worse than the virus.. We need to stand up and do something. We need to open our businesses no matter what the government says. Never before have we intentionally crashed the world economy. It feels like we're living in a coo-coo clock. A down economy will have a higher death count than a virus that only kills less than 1% of infected at most!

Below is a link to a Lancet study that attributes half a million otherwise preventable cancer deaths to the 2008 financial crisis. That is from cancer alone! Not to mention suicides and a slew of other deaths that can be directly attributed to a declining economy and staggering unemployment rates. Unemployment rates during this time maxed out at 10.8% officially. We are currently at three times that rate with nearly 30% unemployment at the time of writing this.

-10.8% unemployment rate Bureau of Labor and Statistics https://www.bls.gov/spotlight/2012/recession/pdf/recession\_bls\_spotlight.pdf

We need to leave a better world for our children and our children's children. We are being cornered by design. Small and medium businesses are being destroyed because of our compliance! This is insanity! It's time to turn off their news channels because they have lost all credibility.

From the top down, our perception is being guided by a narrative that is mostly false. We should scrutinize these outlets because after all, aren't they the ones that came up with the term "fake news" to discredit real, independent journalism? Thank god there are still real journalists dedicated to reporting the truth.

An Excuse for a Cashless Society

There are many different companies calling for cashless transactions after The World Health Organization issued a statement demonizing cash as it could be a medium for carrying the Covid-19 virus.

The problem with a cashless society is that once all currency is moved to an electronic app like Wechat, the powers that be will have the ultimate say on what you can and cannot spend your money on. They would have the ability to shut off dissidents of the system spending abilities, thereby forcing them to be shunned by society from normal purchases (like food and electronic bill transactions.)

Stifling of Independent Thoughts and Discussions

Major players in the digital media world are making major efforts to restrict any discussions that oppose the official narrative of the Coronavirus. Facebook (Instagram), Vimeo, Twitter and Google have taken down videos that oppose 'official reports' surrounding Coronavirus. They have deleted accounts with hundreds of thousands of users. This notion that the official truth is the only truth is an insult to our intelligence.

Although I disagree with this censorship, it is their right as a corporation to choose how they wish to operate. But it is our right to withdraw from using their service. The time is ripe for third party companies to rise up with a censorship free platform to replace these behemoths.

Our Government Has a Known History of False Flag attacks

A false flag, if I recall the origin story correctly was when a pirate ship would sail in the waters near a specific governing body of land (i.e. Britain) and hang the flag of that governing body only to switch it to the Jolly Roger flag upon attacking another ship to prevent them from fleeing or getting prepared for the impending attack. A false flag in current terms extends beyond its navy definition. Dictionary.com defines this as: "an intentional misrepresentation, especially a covert political or military operation carried out to appear as if it was undertaken by another party."

Allow me to quote an article by Caitlyn Johnstone regarding the false flag surrounding the Gulf of Tonkin Incident:

"In 2005 a declassified historical study by the NSA revealed that one of the two incidents which were used to propel America into the disastrous Vietnam War happened the opposite of the way it was reported to have happened, and the second of the two incidents did not happen at all. The allegation that there were "deliberate" and "unprovoked" attacks upon the US Navy in the Gulf of Tonkin on August 2 and August 4 of 1964 was solemnly affirmed by President Johnson, which led to the swift passage of the Gulf of Tonkin Resolution authorizing full presidential authority to commit US military power to the Vietnamese intervention.

In reality the August 2 incident was not in any way "unprovoked", and it was in fact America's USS Maddox which fired upon North Vietnamese boats first. On August 4 there was no engagement with any ships whatsoever, with Johnson privately admitting a year later that "For all I know, our navy was shooting at whales out there."

Damning, indeed.

I also want to quote an article I read recently entitled 53 Admitted False Flag Attacks.

"(23) Official State Department documents show that, in 1961, the head of the Joint Chiefs and other high-level officials discussed blowing up a consulate in the Dominican Republic in order to justify an invasion of that country. The plans were not carried out, but they were all discussed as serious proposals.

(24) As admitted by the U.S. government, recently declassified documents show that in 1962, the American Joint Chiefs of Staff signed off on a plan to blow up AMERICAN airplanes (using an elaborate plan involving the switching of airplanes), and also to commit terrorist acts on American soil, and then to blame it on the Cubans in order to justify an invasion of Cuba. See the following ABC news report; the official documents; and watch this interview with the former Washington Investigative Producer for ABC's World News Tonight with Peter Jennings.

(25) In 1963, the U.S. Department of Defense wrote a paper promoting attacks on nations within the Organization of American States – such as Trinidad-Tobago or Jamaica – and then falsely blaming them on Cuba.

(26) The U.S. Department of Defense even suggested covertly paying a person in the Castro government to attack the United States: "The only area remaining for consideration then would be to bribe one of Castro's subordinate commanders to initiate an attack on Guantanamo."

(27) The NSA admits that it lied about what really happened in the Gulf of Tonkin incident in 1964 ... manipulating data to make it look like North Vietnamese boats fired on a U.S. ship so as to create a false justification for the Vietnam war.

(28) A U.S. Congressional committee admitted that – as part of its "Cointelpro" campaign – the FBI had used many provocateurs in the 1950s through 1970s to carry out violent acts and falsely blame them on political activists."

If this is what the US government was capable of at very high levels during the 1950's and 60's; imagine what atrocities they are secretly responsible for since. Time will tell as more and more documents become declassified as the years go on. Something we must protect is the right to request information through Freedom of Information Act.

We need to have a dialogue as a world within our respective countries. We need to hold meetings in our town halls. We need to assemble and figure out a plan of action to stop this medical and economic tyranny.

If you are interested in my idea for a plan please read this free PDF by Gene Sharp entitled "From Dictatorship to Democracy" Published in 1993 by the Albert Einstein Institution. It was the conceptual framework for a company called 'Otpur' that was founded by a pair of Serbian teenagers after successfully using the peaceful tactics in Sharps' writings to overthrow Slobadan Milosevic.

Subsequently, the Serbian teens were hired by the US government to sponsor several color revolutions for regime change in the middle east and Africa. Although, I disagree with how they ended up becoming rich and furthering the west's agenda of foreign policy, I would like to point out how powerful guidance from this document really is. Definitely worth the read.

Peaceful is the only way. If you overthrow with violence you eventually become what you were fighting. Peaceful, non compliance. We must police ourselves, like the loyal nine did in 1765, and be diligent in not being co-opted.

Our elected officials have done nothing to alter our course. We must kick them out and elect our neighbors. We must take power from the federal level and put it back at the state level. I applaud people like Robert F. Kennedy Jr who is leading the charge against bureaucrat Bill Gates. I applaud doctors, epidemiologists and others who have come out to speak against this.

I want to leave you with a quote.. "The welfare of humanity is always the alibi of tyrants" -Albert Camus

Be Vigilant. Be safe. Be Smart. Don't let them tread on us.
