I love the 80's aesthetic kind of like classic Doctor Who. Toto really knocks it out of the park on the soundtrack. It really puts you in that spacey atmosphere of that era. The weird outsider nature of David Lynch's other films is definitely present here and it's a shame that he has disowned this movie. Some effects are dated but others hold up amazingly well.

I really had a great time with the original version of Dune. It deserves a lot more respect and appreciation than it has garnered since it's release. Overall, really fun,entertaining and creative all the way throughout. A great film in my opinion. While the new interpretation may be good, I doubt that it can live up to the strangeness of this overlooked 80' gem.

If more movies were like this, the world would be a much better place.
