

Last Night In Soho
5 out of 5 stars
Reviewed by Thomas Brinson
October 31, 2021

From one of my favorite directors, Edgar Wright, this was one of my most awaited movies of the year. I was not disappointed. This had everything I could want from a film-great characters and great performances by the actors who portayed them.

The story is so unique that it leaves you on the edge of your seat and constantly guessing. It's unlike anything I've seen before. The editing and cinematography were groundbreaking and breathetaking.

A perfect film all around. Everyone should see this film instead of films like Dune (that's sadly performing so much better at the box office). Go in as blind as possible too. Don't spoil the experience by prepping yourself beforehand on the plot. You won't be sorry!